

WMPCS Notice
3/13/2020

We have been continuing to review and monitor all State and Federal guidelines, releases, and information sheets as they relate to the Coronavirus and how they impact our students, parents, families, grandparents, and guides.

While there are no substantial changes to our operations at this time, that may change with little notice. We ask for your understanding and know that we will give you information on changes to schedules, end of year trips, and activities as fast as we possibly can.

Below you will find the main CDC guidance documents that relate directly to schools and students. Our children are especially attuned to observing our behaviors. It is important to have open honest conversations about what is going on around them.

We have and will continue to maintain our heightened cleaning schedule, have instituted processes to allow us to have remote meetings if needed, ensuring that our communication channels to parents are working, and are in contact with other local and non-local schools monitoring student populations and their health.

These steps are in addition to our wonderful Guides' dedication to their students and their lessons ranging from germs, viruses and personal hygiene in the lower levels to statistics and geographics in the upper levels. We are continually thankful for all that they do in the classrooms.

Please continue to follow the school's sick policy, keep us updated if your child is out, and remind them of the importance of washing their hands and general personal hygiene best practices.

If you have any questions, please do not hesitate to contact either Darla or me.

Thank you,
Austin
